The law of 33%

There are 3 groups of people you should spend time with.

1. People at your level.
2. People above your level... the people of your future.
3. People below your level.

The Law of 33% says you should evenly spend your time amongst these 3 types of people in your life.

Never miss the importance of Protégés in your life. They will help you to keep your character because if you fail, you will destroy their lives. It's like having your personal character trainer, and also impacting lives! Think about this... essential guardrail for anyone going for success. You will also be amazed after some time that your decision-making process will sharpen to make critical decisions more spot-on.
